SCROFULOUS. INHERITED,

Judging by the accounts in certain classes of sensational papers, we are last approaching a revival of the old-time English method of "plunging" on the turf, which bids that to bring eventual ruin to many an opulent establishment. Fortunately the fabutions winnings credited to different parties have but little existence outside of the unbridled imaginations of fanciful writers. Thus, one Chicego journal states, with all wealth of language and imagery for which "Chicego journalism is famous, that Freddie Gebbardt last Tueaday won $7,000 in stakes and $50,000 in bets of eight to one by Eole's vic ory over George Kinney and Iroquois. CONTAGIOUS.

IN 1870 Scrofulous Ulcers broke out on my body until my breast was one mass of corruption. Some of these Ulcers were not less than one sind one half luch s in diameter, the edges rough, ragged, and seemingly dead, the cavity open to the bone and filled with offensi e matter. Everything known to the medical facture was tried in vain. Gradually the bone itself became descared, and then the suffering began in carners. B ne nlears began to take the place of those hitberto on the sa face. I became a mere wreek. For months at a time could not go my "ands to my head because of extreme soreness. Could not turn in bed. Knewnort what it was to be an aour free from pan. Had re son to look upon life itself as a curse. In the summer of 1830, after lee years of this wrethed existence, I began to use the Chi icura Remedies, and after two years persistent use of whem the last nicer has healed. The dread disease has succumbed. All over the breast where was once a mass of corruption is now a healtry sich. Now, the value of the stakes was but $3,569 to the winter; the odds against the borse were never better than three and a haif to one: Mr. Gebhardt could not have won $50,000 because he was not on the grounds, and even it he had been he would not have landed such an amount, because his limit of investment on his horse seliom reaches, and never exceeds $2 000. As on the occasion when he lost his chances were generally regarded as "moral certainties" and Mr. Gebrardt backed him heavier on those occasions than for many of his victiries, the chances are that Freddle is out of pocket on his horse thus far.

Last Saturday Mr. Pierre Lorillard was said to have lost $30,000 and the Dwyers to have w n $60,000 ver the offeat of those amounts would be nearer the truth.
